Initially there is a real feeling of discovery (and awe) when playing against the DM/Dealer. But when I reach the boss at the end of a level, and loose, I can't just retry that boss. I have to go through all the same cards again. What was a wonderful discovery becomes a boring chore. It gets even more frustrating because of RNG: sometimes I just can't reach the boss again, I just don't get enough luck to loot enough tokens for example. So I have to re-run a third time... and at that point I understand what others meant about RNG.

That game had a great idea (offline computer-aided Dungeon Master) but because of RNG and because cards in essence don't offer much in term of animation, this game is just... trying to find the right word.... BORINGLY SAD.

I so much regret buying this game and it's now uninstalled.
